

- Cloncurry, Lord*, 475.
Corporation of London, 393.
Croyland, Monastery of, 139.
Cuba, Island of, Conspiracy now organising there, 123.
Cuthbert St., 512—his miracles, as recorded by V. Bede, 515, 516—whether by birth an Irishman, 519—his appearance, 520—his body continuing entire, 521.
Deacons, institution of, 333.
Delaber, Anthony, his untruth, 9.
Dolly's Brae Massacre, 484.
Einar sent from Greenland to obtain a bishop, 61.
Emancipation of the French Commune and municipality from the centre of the Metropolis, 110.
Emigration, effects of it in Ireland, 358.
Encumbered Estates commission, 384.
Endowments for the Church, necessity of, 384.
Erick Rauda, 43—settles in Greenland, 43.
Eucharist, the most Blessed, 335, 339—conversions effected by His divine presence, 340.
Extreme unction, 334.
Eybyggja Saga, 49.
Eyre, Monsignor, his work on St. Cuthbert, 512—error in it, 518.
Fetty, John, his history, 28.
Fisheries in Ireland, 425—at Ring, 425—restrictions upon them, 429—conduct of Irish members upon the subject, 429.
For, his misrepresentation, 25, 27.
France, her past and present condition compared, 111—her present state, 119.
Glencoe, massacre of, 87.
Grace, its sacramental action, 305.
Greene, Thomas, his untruth, 10.
Greenland, 35—its extinct colonies, 35, 38—sketch of its history, 36, 43—its name, 42.—introduction there of Christianity, 44—establishment of the first bishop, 61—blow struck at its commercial prosperity, 67—collection of Briefs, &c., relating to it, 67—fate of the colonists, 69.
Gunnbjorn Skjaer,
Henry VIII., his religious opinions, 28.
Herjulf, 43.
History, Catholic, of England, 128—merits of the plans, 131—extracts, 133.
Hymns, by F. Faber, 172.
Ingesmund, death of the priest, 65.
Invasion, Danish, particulars of, 139—was not passively endured by the Anglo-Saxons, 141.
Ireland, her condition, 351—effect of the poor laws there, 360—desirable that the land should be sold to pay them, 395—land daily going out of cultivation, 410—registry of land recommended, 421—who are her real enemies, 422—oppressive restrictions, 427—misery of her people, 470, 477—misgovernment of, 472—destitute of public opinion, 475.—Parliament bound to interfere on behalf of its moral population, 501.
Irish, their moral virtues, 475—history of English misgovernment of them, 477.
James VI., King, intrigues against the Presbyterians, 419.
Jews, their teaching, 196.
Journalists of Paris, their conference, 109.
Joye, George, his untruth, 8.
Kakortok, church of, 72.
Kennedy, Captain, his letter, 494.
Kenrick, Bishop, his translation of the Vulgate, 181.
Knox, extract from his 'Blast, &c.', 19.
Laing, Mr., his falsifications on the subject of Anglo-Saxon Literature, 142.
Lamartine, 102.
Land, condition and value of in Ireland, 502—in Connaught, 505.
Landlords in Ireland, their legislation, 350—their intense selfishness, 356—their interest alone the object of last Session, 363—laws passed for their benefit, 364—management of their property, 370—its enormous costs and difficulties, 374—small securities they have allowed to tenants, 372.—have prevented the sale of land for poor rates, by interposing Chancery suits, 397—are the real enemies of Ireland, 422—in England also selfish in their legislation, 424.—Irish, desire to get rid of the poor laws and the poor, 503—efforts to keep up their rents, 505—proposed plan for arbitration between them and their tenants, 506.
Law, Common, 380—Bankrupt, 384—concerning poor rates on the Bedford Level, 401—should not be changed, 411.
Lazarus, 331.
Ledru Rollin, 103.
Leif, his conversion, 47.
Leoproy an emblem of sin, 324.
Lig Ladin, extracts from his history, 59.
Literature of the Anglo-Saxons, 142.
Lodge, Grand Orange, their charge against Lord Clarendon, 491—complete refutation of it, 494.
Longford, Dr., his evidence, 395.
Lord Lieutenantcy of Ireland should be abolished, 419.
Lucan, Lord, his extortionate rents, 504.
Madden, Dr., extract from his work on Cuba, 124.
Maitland, S. R., his essays, I—upon the circumstances of the Reformation, 3—their learning, 5—upon Puritan veracity, 7—upon Puritan style, 13—his exposure of frauds, 24—essays upon Bonner, 29.
Manuscript of the Bible, 293.
Members of Parliament, Irish, their conduct, 425—oppose the taking off restrictions upon fisheries, 429.
Ministers of the Church of Scotland, 460.
Miracles, our Saviour's, to be considered in three points of view, 300—as important lessons, 302—forming counterparts to His parables, 302—miracles typifying greater marvels than themselves, 303—appearance of miracle greater in the type than in the fulfilment, 304, 306—upon what principle St. John selected the miracles he records, 308—miracles which typify Baptism, 309—counterparts only found in Catholic Baptism, 312—penance symbolised by miracles, 341—counterpart in Catholic Church, 326—by the raising of the dead to life, 328, 330—miracles of the three dead raised to life, 330—miracles significative of extreme unction, 332—of the B. Eucharist, 335—twofold nature of miracles, 341.
Missions, Catholic, best method of supporting them, 274.
Monarchy, most enduring form of government, 91—from attachment to the person of the monarch, 94—especially needful in France, 95—monarchy of July, 96.

Mentalembert, Count de, 122.
Names of new invention, 150.

O'Connell, his policy, 477.

Offerings, Easter, 279.

Offeritory considered as a means of support to the chapels, 281.

Orange party in Ireland, their loyalty, 473—contrasted with the ribbon societies, 483.

Orangemen, their loyalty, 492—traitors to both parties, 498—their rage at their leaders being dismissed from the commission, 498.

Oratory, the. Institute of, 169—its duties, 169.

Oxford, Bishop of, his speech to the middle classes, 532.

Palinodia, Puritan, 23.

Parables of our Saviour, 185—meaning of the word almost convertible with proverb, 188—different use of the two, 189—correspond with prophesy in the old law, 200—parables in the 13th chap. of St. Matthew: parable of the lost sheep, 204—only Catholics can properly apply them, 205, 213—general purpose of the parables recorded in St. Matthew, 208—different scope of those of St. Luke, 210—Analysis of that of the good Samaritan, 216—parables recorded by St. John, 225—reference of one parable to another, 331.

Peel, Sir Robert, his plantation scheme, 392, 393.

Persecution of Catholics in Scotland, 436—in Switzerland, 440.

Poor's rates, iniquitous method of collecting them in Ireland, 406.

Presbyterians oppose liberty of conscience, 455.

Property, landed, effects of its subdivision, 111.

Proverbs applied by our Lord, 190, 191—associated with the idea of wisdom, 198.

Puffing, former system of, 147.

Puritans, their mendacity, 7—their style, 13—their recidival doctrines, 19—unsay them with regard to Elizabeth, 23.

Rambler, the, 267.

Reformation, similarity of its results in England and Germany, 5.

— in Scotland, 435.

Reformers, motive of the severities exercised towards them, 18.

— Scotch, their opinions of the Church, 442—their opinion of the Christian ministry, 443—their league and covenant with the English parliament, 455.

Repeal, its impracticability, 509.

Republic, as it exists in America, 92.

Revolution, progress of in France, 101, 105, 113—establishment of the Republican constitution, 114—election of Louis Buonaparte, 115.

Ring, fishing village in Ireland, 426.

Rome, superior drainage of, 536.

Sagas, Icelandic, 37—Saga relating to certain islands,—Ireland mentioned in them, 43.

Science, great and practical applications of during the last half century, 529—its dangerous tendency, 531—practical illustration, 533. Scientific treatment of the human body, remarks on, 544.

St. Peter's, kindling of, at Easter, 334.

Shirt, the, 133.

Sin, as considered by the Old Law, 327—by Protestants, 329.

Six Articles, persecution under them, 27.

Skjala Helge, 57.

Socialism, 100—all parties unite against it, 108.

Soul, the, its spiritual life, 304.

Spottiswoode Society, 433—who named after, 433.

Statute de Donis, 368.

Strype, Mr., his false statements, 24.

Steam-Engine, its various applications, 629.

Subsidies, Irish, equal to the income tax,

Tra-pot, 152.

Thorbjorn, anecdote of, 45.

Thorgyl, his shipwreck on the coast of Greenland, 50—adventure there, 50—death of his son, 53—his strife with Thor, 53.

Thormod Rolbruneskald revenges his friend, 51 his conflict, 55—his vow, 56.

Thorstein Erikson, anecdote of, 48.

Transubstantiation, 337.

Turketul the Chancelier, 145.

Tulchan, 433.

Ungertok, leader of the last Greenland colonists, 72—his death, 73.

Unionz, Clare Island, 360.

Univors, writers of, 122.

Vardlokkur, the song, 47.

Ventilation, 540.

Vulgate, the, 182.

Wine, its transmutation, 338.

Witnesses on Irish matters selected by the House of Lords, 352.

